

RESTAURANTS

The restaurant industry is filled with many variables that can affect business. Some variables include weather, seasons, location and service. It is important for restaurants to keep their tables filled with their guests. txtwire's unique service enables restaurant managers to communicate immediately and directly with their customers.

txtwire is invaluable to restaurants in that it can be used in response to variables that may adversely affect business. For example, a rainy day may keep people at home, but by using txtwire a restaurant can send a text message coupon offering customers a rainy day special -- a bowl of warm soup for a deeply discounted price. The ability for restaurants to directly communicate with customers can turn potentially negative variables like a cold rainy day into opportunities to increase restaurant traffic and increase sales.
